Crossing the marshes, towpath along the Risle to Pont-Audemer, big ponds of Toutainville, view of the valley, the oval chapel and the manor Aubigny (17th century), beautiful beeches area...

- Back to the car park, cross the RD 312 and go around the medieval house. After admiring the panorama from the orientation table, go down the path towards the springs to the right.
- Cross the footbridge towards the marshes which marks the beginning of the interpretation trail. At the first intersection, continue straight and then right at the gate.
- After the bend, cross the ditch to follow the path that runs along the trench straight and allows to observe a stork nest.
- Take the path on stilts that crosses the old bed of the Risle, then cross the wood towards the Risle. After observing the level of the tide on the Risle Maritime, go back slightly to continue the path that goes through the woods.
- Turn left to take the old towpath along the Risle and leads to Pont-Audemer.
- Just after the camping, cross the road to reach the large pond that you follow to the right. Pass the entrance of the nautical club to enter inside a wood, then find to the left the edge of the pond.
- Cross the railway and take the small road to the right. Pass under the bridge of the highway near the departmental road. Then turn right to get around the village hall.
- At the crossroads behind the factory, go straight and then cross the departmental road to climb towards the woods.
- At the top, turn right and go straight ahead. After the hamlet, go down to the right towards the forest. At the bottom, turn right to go down to the village of Saint-Sulpice.
