Six top picks in the Calvados
region

1. Relive the past

Visit the iconic Caen Memorial site for a complete overview of the D-Day landings on our beaches and their impact. Take a stroll down memory lane, along the beaches all the way to Pointe du Hoc, symbol of the bitter battle for freedom. Experience the thrill of standing at one of the many memorial sites that commemorate those critical moments: the American cemetery of Colleville-sur-Mer, the Arromanches 360 cinema, the Mémorial des Civils in Falaise, the Centre Juno Beach in Courseulles-sur-Mer, the Mémorial de la Bataille de Normandie in Bayeux...

2. Sample the local specialties, popular all round the world

Camembert, pont-l'évêque and livarot cheeses, calvados, coquilles Saint-Jacques (scallops)! These are the products Calvados is so famous for: try them for yourself right at their place of origin. Our cheeses and our ciders, our oysters and our andouilles (sausages) await you, and our producers are keen to show you skills and methods handed down through the ages.

Think the Calvados region is boring?

Think again -
there's loads to see and do! And you can be sure of this: the handful of top spots listed
here are just the tip of the iceberg...

3. The Calvados region is undeniably rich in heritage

It boasts the greatest number of 'Historical Monument' sites in all of France, after Paris. You'll discover wonders such as the majestic castles of Bessin (Fontaine-Henry, Colombières, the Manoir d'Argouges...) or the amazing Château de Saint-Germain-de-Livet, in the Pays d'Auge. The list goes on: the very classical Domaine de Pontécoulant, in Swiss Normandy, the traditional Manoir des Evêques on the Côte Fleurie, the wonderful church of Sainte-Catherine in Honfleur...

4. Follow in the footsteps of William the Conqueror

Born around 1027 in Falaise, south of Caen, the Duke of Normandy who became King of England lived a fascinating life. You'll see marks of his passage at many sites around the Calvados region, particularly in three famous towns: Falaise, whose castle 'Guillaume' grew up in; Caen, where you can visit the castle that still bears his name, and its two abbeys; and Bayeux, of course, which holds the famous tapestry depicting his saga in England.

5. The religious town of Lisieux is France's most important spiritual spot after Lourdes.

Visit the Lisieux Basilica and marvel at its jaw-dropping beauty; go and see the Carmelite nunnery and the Maison des Buissonnets, childhood home of Sainte-Thérèse of Lisieux, whose holy precepts are followed the world over. Further west in Calvados, you'll find another gem: the Notre-Dame de la Délivrance Basilica, in Douvres-La Délivrance.

6. Stroll through the region's parks and gardens

A dozen or so are officially classed as 'Jardins Remarquables'. At Jardins du Pays d'Auge, in Cambremer, you'll be taken round a former nursery set out in 27 different features, while the Canon gardens demonstrate the transition between the ordered classicism of the French garden style and the irregular composition of the British style. The landscaped gardens of Vendevre castle are also interesting, with their contrasting atmospheres and themed layout.

What's
new!

Villa du Temps retrouvé

The 'Villa du Temps retrouvé' in Cabourg will bring the Belle Époque back to life. In this period at the turn of the 20th century, Marcel Proust wrote the early drafts of his work in his room at the Grand Hotel. The Villa, a dynamic and immersive museum space, takes visitors on a journey back in time in the company of the writer, with a chance to explore the seaside resort. Areas include an architectural and seaside interpretation centre, an immersive room, an architectural interpretation centre about the Belle Époque aesthetic, a museum space, a temporary exhibition space, a 1900-inspired garden, and much more to discover...

Bayeux, the miracle survivor

British soldiers liberated Bayeux the day after D-Day and the town is still a miracle survivor. It escaped bombings and set the scene for a large military hospital before General de Gaulle chose it for his first speech once France had been liberated, on June 14th 1944, and it became the 'capital of liberated France'. Visitors are whisked back to a pivotal time in the town's contemporary history through anecdotes, archive photos and period buildings on the guided tour.

British Normandy Memorial

This commemorative monument in Ver-sur-Mer will be dedicated to the 22,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen of the Commonwealth, as well as the local civilian victims, who lost their lives during the D-Day landings on the Normandy beaches. The chosen site is located in a field overlooking 'Gold Beach', with a direct view of the remains of Arromanches-les-Bains artificial harbour. The first stone has been laid in June 2019 to mark the 75th anniversary of D-Day.

INAUGURATION PLANNED FOR JUNE 2020.

Walt D'Isigny Exhibition

Explore the magical world of Mickey! Annick Adam, a.k.a. Madame Mickey, had a lifelong and unflinching passion for Walt Disney's 'son'. She collected 6,000 items that she left to Isigny-sur-Mer. 1.

Bayeux-Bessin

The Bessin region lies to the west side of Calvados and is known throughout the world as the site of D-Day landings in 1944, when thousands of soldiers trod its soil. But history goes back much further, and the capital, Bayeux, holds an impressive store of heritage preserved through twenty centuries: the famous millenary tapestry, of course, along with magnificent castles set in wild, romantic landscapes.

Top pick!

Step into a world of images, lights and sounds paying tribute to Bayeux Cathedral! 2 amazing events put it in the spotlight to spectacular effect: the 'William's Cathedral' and 'Cathedral Get-Togethers' shows.

Save the date!

- Medieval Fairs of Bayeux (July)
- Scallop festival in Port-en-Bessin-Huppain (November)
- 'La Cathédrale de Guillaume' (William's Cathedral) show in Bayeux (December)
- 'Rendez-vous à la Cathédrale' in Bayeux (July-August)

2.

Norman Bocage

You are now entering the untamed part of Calvados, a land of deep valleys and of traditional skills passed down through generations. The south-west part of the region holds particular charm as a nature destination, perfect for outdoor sports. You can reach it through Villers-Bocage, a town steeped in history. Further south lies Vire, the region's capital, looking down over the area from the vantage point of its famous 13th-century Porte-Horloge (clock-tower).

Top pick!

Who hasn't dreamt of delving into the bowels of the Earth? Strap on a helmet and head into the Souterroscope des Ardoisières tunnels in Caumont-sur-Aure like a miner, explore the lake of wonders, tunnel of fear, the chasm and its earth bridge... You can now get involved in your tour with the new set-up in the hall of wonders!

Caen la mer - Normandie

The city of Caen, right at the heart of Normandy, has lived a thousand lives! It's here that William the Conqueror grew up; and, almost a thousand years later, it played a major role in the allied mission to re-establish peace in Europe after 1944. Strewn with countless traces of the past, this vibrant city is now an upbeat and modern place to visit, full of hidden gems just waiting to be discovered.

Top pick!

Proust's madeleines are real! They call the Biscuiterie Jeannette in Colombelles home. Travel back to your childhood on a sensory tour where you'll learn the secrets behind making the biscuit so popular with young and old alike.

Honfleur

It's easy to imagine Honfleur in Medieval times. Over a thousand years old, this stately town still bears striking testimony to its illustrious past. See the church, made entirely of wood, with a separate bell-tower. You won't find another one like it in all of France! And the marina right in the city centre, surrounded by thin, colourful buildings? A photographer's dream! One thing's for sure: Honfleur is 'a harbour like no other'!

Top pick!

This tour will give you wings! Dive into the heart of Naturospace in Honfleur, a tropical garden packed with butterflies, birds and exotic plants. Take your time observing the huge variety of butterflies from every continent and, who knows, one of them may quietly land on your shoulder...

Authentic Normandy Tourism Lisieux Agglomération

The Normandy of postcards reflects the idyllic landscapes of Pays d'Auge. Legions of blossoming apple trees adorn the land in springtime, and pour their nectar into our ciders and calvados. Quiet little paths criss-cross the countryside, along which you may suddenly come across a stud farm with racehorses of international renown. And finally there's Lisieux, a famous spiritual spot dedicated to the memory of Sainte-Thérèse of Lisieux, where hundreds gather to pray.

Top pick!

Who said there's no such thing as Prince Charming? The château stands in Calvados, nestled in a leafy valley near Lisieux... in Saint-Germain-de-Livet to be exact. The architectural feat is a sight for sore eyes with its half-timbered manor and stone and glazed brick construction. It deserves its nickname: the 'Jewel of the Pays d'Auge'.

Save the date!

- Medieval fair at the Château de Crèvecœur-en-Auge (2nd-9th August)

Normandie Cabourg Pays d'Auge

Cabourg is known for its romantic beaches. The best way to soak in the atmosphere is to go for a stroll down the beach late in the afternoon, by the opulent Belle Epoque villas all along the coast that seem to yawn in their luxury. As a seaside resort, Cabourg is a colourful place, proud to play its part on the Côte Fleurie!

Top pick!

When was the seaside resort of Cabourg created? How did the fashion of sea-bathing start? Who lives in these seaside villas? You'll know the answers to all this and much more after a guided tour offered by the town's tourist office.

Pays de Falaise

Falaise without its castle would be like the sea without waves! But this famous castle, once home to William the Conqueror, is not the only monument towering over the medieval city. On the city's central square stands an imposing statue of 'Guillaume' himself, tirelessly watching over the leafy pastures and wild hills of the region he once knew so well.

Top pick!

The 'Mémorial des Civils dans la Guerre' in Falaise captures the everyday lives of civilians during WWII to give visitors an insight into life in occupied France, bombings, the exodus... This exceptional museum is the only one to focus entirely on the fate of civilians in wartime.

Pont-l'Évêque Terre d'Auge

A river gently meanders through a mosaic of fields, and the wind whispers age-old legends: this is Pays d'Auge, land of history. Just beyond the next hill, fringed with lush green pastures, you may come across a traditional village and suddenly, it's like you've stepped back in time. Beaumont-en-Auge is a fine example, with its colourful half-timbered houses.

Top pick!

Calvados Experience covers almost 3,000m² near Pont-L'Évêque and presents the history of Normandy and its star product, calvados, to visitors. An all-round interactive experience with sound effects to steep you in the world of making this delicious beverage, please drink responsibly!

Deauville region

When it comes to seaside resorts, Deauville is the height of chic. It's fashionable, vibrant and colourful, with its famous seaside promenade (known as the 'Planches'), its huge beach and all the swish establishments proudly lining the seafront. So it's easy to forget that Deauville is also a top destination for horse lovers and a gateway to the beautiful Pays d'Auge countryside.

Top pick!

Terres de Nacre

The Côte de Nacre (Mother of Pearl Coast) stretches from the banks of the Orne to Courseulles-sur-Mer and boasts a plethora of white sandy beaches: you've only to choose which suits you best. Back in June 1944, this sector was dubbed 'Sword' and 'Juno': here's where the British, French and Canadian soldiers landed on D-Day.

Top pick!

The 24 hectares of cliff and rocky foreshore at Cap Romain are recognised all over the world for their geological importance, and are also part of the marine protected areas.

Swiss Normandy

The name says it all: this region's all about green valleys and majestic, sweeping landscapes, streaked by the shimmering of the river Orne as it meanders gently along.. This is nature at its finest. No wonder it's so popular with nature lovers and outdoor sports enthusiasts, who flock to Thury-Harcourt, Clécy and the surrounding area for some top-class hiking, mountain-biking, rock-climbing, paragliding and canoeing.

Top pick!

50 years of family fun at the miniature railway in Clécy. Open your eyes wide, you're stepping into a Lilliputian land! The 2nd biggest miniature railway model in Europe covers 310m² where you can use interactive boxes to bring some of the shrunken features to life!

Trouville-sur-Mer

Deauville's twin is just as popular: with its Belle Epoque charm and narrow alleys, it seems to hide a well-kept secret... At the very end of the avenue lined with restaurants, on the Trouville-sur-Mer seafront, stand the centenary casino and the magnificent Cures Marines hotel, for those who love wide open spaces.

Top pick!

Dive into the 19th century and soak up the seaside history of Trouville-sur-Mer with its architectural heritage: villas, former hotels and casinos which saw the resort flourish and still give the town its signature magic and honesty.

Save the date!

- Sea and Mackerel festival in Trouville-sur-Mer (in July or August)
- Off-Courts festival (early September)
